BORN IN RACING. BUILT BY FAMILY. DRIVEN BY PURPOSE.

For more than five decades, the name KINI has stood for an Austrian motorsport legacy shaped by family, passion, and an uncompromising connection to racing. It's a name forged on start lines and in paddocks — where commitment matters more than words, and stories are earned, not told.

At the center of that legacy is Heinz Kinigadner — two-time Motocross World Champion, rally competitor, and one of the most influential figures in Austrian motorsport. Racing was never just about winning. It was about pushing limits, building communities, and using the reach of the sport to create momentum beyond the finish line.

What makes the KINI story truly lasting, though, is what happened beyond the track.

That belief took on a deeper meaning when Heinz' son Hannes sustained a spinal cord injury after a crash during a charity motocross event. What followed was not withdrawal, but resolve. Together with Dietrich Mateschitz, then CEO of Red Bull, Heinz Kinigadner co-founded Wings for Life with a clear and uncompromising goal: to make spinal cord injuries curable. A single moment changed one family's life — and became the starting point of a global research foundation driven by science, hope, and determination.

In the wake of that moment, the idea of the KINI Red Bull brand began to take shape. What started as a few helmets and apparel pieces evolved into something with a clear purpose — never driven by profit, but by responsibility. From the very beginning, a significant share of the brand's proceeds has supported the Wings for Life Foundation. To date, more than €3 million have been contributed through KINI Red Bull.

This is where the KINI story finds its clarity. Born in racing. Built by family. Driven by purpose. KINI Red Bull stands for more than performance and style — it stands for resilience, commitment, and doing something meaningful with the platform motorsport provides. Carried forward by the next generation and embedded within the Gravity Sports Group portfolio, KINI remains the most authentic expression of that mindset. This collection doesn't reference a legacy — it lives it.
